

OUTDOOR WORK IS TO BE A FEATURE

University Summer School
Plans to Devote Much Time to Excursions.

NATURE AT FIRST HAND

Eminent Instructors Will Accompany Students on Trips of Exploration.

Those in charge of the six weeks' summer school at the university are giving considerable attention this year to the matter of recreation and exercise for the students and instructors. Every Saturday and holiday during the summer school there will be some special excursion in which all students and faculty members will be expected to take part.

On June 15 a trip will be taken over the "Old Mormon Trail." The cars will be taken to the point where the pioneers first entered the canyon, and from there the party will walk on up the trail. Prof. Levi E. Young will act as guide for the party.

The following week the school will visit both Cottonwood canyons, where the students will inspect the glacial formations and the power plants. This is the regular geology trip, and will be directed by Professor Pack, head of the department of geology at the university.

An excursion to Wandamere will be made the following week during the boat racing season and the bowling tournament.

July 1 the celebration and maneuvers at Fort Douglas will be seen.

Will Try Climbing.

On July 6 a long mountain climb will be attempted. The route will lead up Dry Canyon to Black Mountain, from there over the ridge into City Creek canyon, down past the natural bridge and home through Canyon road.

The last excursion will be a trip to Saltair on July 13. Besides these trips there will be several receptions and informal entertainments and musical programmes. The summer school faculty will receive the students on the evening of June 14 under the direction of the department of physical education. All classes will be suspended from 9 to 10 o'clock on June 25 to allow all students to indulge in "play hour" on the front lawn. The evening of June 28 will be devoted to a trip up to the "U" on the hill to watch the sun set and the moon come up. Last year H. S. Curtis of the Educational Journal took that trip and devoted a paragraph in one of the late issues of the paper to the beauty of the scene. There will be a general illumination and dance in the assembly hall the evening of June 12.

All Asked to Play.

Every afternoon there will be an hour set aside during which the entire population of the summer school will be invited to play the various games, from the simplest to the most complicated, taught by the physical education instructors. There will be volleyball, tennis, croquet, etc. There will also be a daily outdoor gymnasium class which is open to all members of the summer school, without additional expense.

Professor Franklin H. Giddings of Columbia will deliver seven lectures on the university campus, some of which will be arranged at such times as will enable every student to attend them. He will also give three lectures in the city; one in the First Congregational church, one at Barratt hall and the third in the tabernacle. Mr. Giddings is the man who first proposed the idea of devoting separate schools in American colleges to sociology and the history of education. Most American schools have done this.

Mrs. Karen Jacobson will deliver one lecture on the selection of literature for public libraries.

Professor Jacob Bolin of the University of Utah will deliver one lecture on a subject to be announced later.

In addition to these, several illustrated lectures are being planned which will be given out of doors at night on the campus.

TRAIN DISPATCHER ACCUSED OF FRAUD

F. A. Dunning, a train dispatcher, aged 33 years, is held at the city jail, charged with cashing three worthless checks about town. He was taken in custody by Patrolman F. A. Smith yesterday following the filing of several complaints by merchants and others. Among those Dunning is said to have defrauded are the Smith Drug company, which cashed a check for $10; the Shannon clothing company, where he presented a check for $52 in payment for clothing purchased and received the major portion of it in change, and the Chiles hotel, which cashed a check for $26. The police expect to trace other check operations of recent date to Dunning.

CAVALRY BAPTIST PASTOR RETURNS

The Rev. John H. Allen, who was pastor of the Cavalry Baptist church of this city from 1908 to 1909, has returned and will resume his pastorate of the church. He will preach at the morning and evening services.

The Rev. Mr. Allen has been in all sections of the country since leaving the city three years ago, but he thinks Salt Lake City is the best place in which to live. The church is on the corner of Third South and Seventh East streets.

ILLNESS OF MOTHER CAUSE OF RESPITE

Fred Eldredge, convicted in Judge F. C. Loofbourrow's division of the Third district court on a statutory charge, and sentenced to serve a year in prison, but who was given until Saturday morning to begin his sentence, was granted an additional respite yesterday by the court. Eldredge's mother is dangerously ill and the physicians fear that if her son is sent to prison at this time he will die. The court granted the defendant a respite until Monday morning to report to the sheriff for commitment to prison.

Photographs of Babies Continuing to Pour In "Dark Horse" Entered From Snake River Valley Country in Idaho.

Photographers Having Time of Lives Wrestling With Youngsters.

PHOTOGRAPHERS who have contracted to take the free pictures for the Borden baby contest have early in the game reached the conclusion that the babies are not the only ones who are entitled to handsome prizes and medals. The Salt Lake photographers at least were thankful for the storm of Friday and yesterday, for it temporarily stemmed the tide of babies and doting attendants surging city wards.

And now the promoters of the contest have awakened to the fact that Utah and surrounding states are fruitful fields for the rearing of twins and accordingly have come forward with the announcement that in addition to the 219 prizes offered for the best baby in the opinion of the committee of judges there will be $10 in gold given to the best twins.

"It is a pretty hard job at the best to take a satisfactory photograph of a young and restless baby," said Alfred P. Hunt, the operator at the Monroe studio yesterday. "But when you have to catch two babies when they are both smiling—he threw up his hands in the gesture of resignation—that takes patience, time and an artist."

At the Photo Arts company F. E. Scott had a similar story. Combined, both studios have taken close upon 200 photographs, and still they come. The proofs have to be submitted and then the pictures themselves finished and sent to The Tribune. But there is a flood of photos of babies coming in all the time from Salt Lake and outside points. In the words of the promoters, "The contest is going to be a whale."

Both photographers state that not the least interesting feature of the studio work is to notice the parents seated in the ante-room awaiting their turn. As a new candidate enters, accompanied by relatives and courtiers galore, those already on the premises size up the new arrivals and indulge in sotto voce criticisms and a general comparison of the fine points of a Utah bred baby is en regle.

Amusing Incidents.

Some amusing incidents are connected with the contest. One baby's picture was entered. The baby is minus clothes, the photograph bears no identification marks and the postmark is too blurred to be decipherable. It is reproduced above in hopes that the parents will send in the name and age of the unidentified baby.

Another photograph bears considerable data on the back giving the name, age, weight, etc., concluding with: "Sex, white American."

Mother Wants Novelty.

One mother on Thursday insisted on having her 3-months-old hopeful photographed as he fondled a spoon and a can of Borden's special brand of malted milk. Mr. Scott in vain told her that such commercial trimmings added no value to the artistic merit of the picture, but the mother was adamant. All hands around the studio subsequently spent a most strenuous thirty minutes getting baby and her "props" to pose properly before the camera.

After all, both photographers are a unit in declaring that they would sooner have babies for subjects than some individuals who pose before the camera.

Unidentified Contestant.
